Seen & Heard Around MURRAY

Jack Frost and James Lassiter gingerly carrying a large pane of glass up the street.

A captivating little girl is Jenna, three year old daughter of Rev. and Mrs. B. R. Winchester. She has red hair and blue eyes.

Chug hole on Poplar street. We hit it everytime.

Five year old is the aggressive type. There were only two biscuits left the other morning at breakfast, and he got one of them.

Assumed an air of injured pride with that "I've only had one so far" expression on his face.

Some people are like owls—they get a reputation for being clever by hooting at everything.

Dan Bennett says, "An oldtimer is one who can remember when 'bullion' was always regarded as a misprint for thin soup."

Tulips, crocus, narcissus are up two and three inches and more. In weather like today they will just come right on out of the ground.

Valentine Day has come and gone.

Seems as though the accepted practice, when you run short of valentines, is to erase the name on one you received, and just send it on to somebody else.

Kids gave us one, which from all appearances had gone through several hands before it reached us.

Pretty sound idea, however. Why should a pretty card stop with one person, when several can enjoy it.

The house at the corner of North Fourth Street has been torn down.

Rumor says a service station is going up on the location.

North Fourth is rapidly becoming a well founded extension of the business district.

New home going up on Sycamore extended near 10th street.

Our sympathy to Dr. Chiles on the loss of his father.

Magazine Pictures Russian Bombers Over Canada

WASHINGTON (AP)—The magazine Aviation Week says more than 400 mammoth bombers of two new types are poised in northern Russia "across the polar ice cap from the North American continent."

Reconnaissance versions of the big planes, driving by turbine-propeller engines, have made routine flights "at extreme altitude above the Alaskan and Canadian defense perimeter," the magazine says.

The authoritative McGraw Hill publication carries pictures and performance details of the two models in its current issue. Originals of the two photographs, one showing a craft similar in appearance to the U.S. B36 super bomber, were turned over to Air Force intelligence officers.

Without disclosing the source of the pictures and performance data, Aviation Week identified the planes as the Ilyushin 38 and the Tupolev 90.

The TU200, resembling the B36 in size, is powered by six engines, has swept-back wings, can hit a top speed of 465 miles an hour, and can fly as high as 50,000 feet.

The IL38, a smaller, four-engine ship, was said to have a top speed of 430 m.p.h. and a ceiling of about 30,000 feet.

The performance data indicate the bombers would be extremely hard to intercept and attack with today's defense weapons. The pictures showed radar installations on the undersides of the fuselages, indicating high-altitude, electronic bombing systems.

Aviation Week said its photographs and accompanying information "confirm the rapid buildup of offensive air power with the Soviet Union."

Queen Elizabeth Opens Parliament

CANBERRA, Australia (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II, wearing her white coronation gown, opened Australia's Parliament today in the most magnificent ceremony in the history of the Commonwealth.

Large crowds lined along the streets and cheered the royal couple as they passed by.

Sixty senators and 120 members of the House of Representatives gathered in the Senate chamber for the short but impressive ceremony—the first time a reigning monarch has ever opened the Australian Parliament.

The Queen sat in the chair in which her father, then the Duke of York, sat when he opened Parliament in 1927.

In her speech from the throne, Elizabeth said it was a "joy" to be able to address the Parliament "not as a Queen from far away but as your Queen and a part of your Parliament."

"It is a very real sense, you are here as my colleagues, friends and advisers," the Queen said.

"Moved by these feelings," the Queen added, "it is my resolve that under God, I shall not only rule but serve."

Over Two Hundred Thousand Paid To Calloway Residents

Frankfort, Ky. (AP)—A total of $214,365 was paid to residents of Calloway County in public assistance during 1953 according to a report released today by Commissioner of Economic Security Vego B. Barnes.

Three types of aid—Old Age Assistance, Aid to Dependent Children and Aid to the Needy Blind—are administered through the agency. Total payments in the county distributed among the three types of aid were:

Old Age Assistance, $191,334; Dependent Children, $21,624; Needy Blind, $1,407.

Public assistance payments for the entire year totaled $29,217,100, a $4,000,000 increase over the 1952 total of $25,187,055 and more than double the 1948 total of $17,971,270, when the three programs were consolidated under one agency, the Department of Economic Security. Payments for 1949 were $23,879,544; 1950, $29,536,570 and 1951, $31,979,485.

Each year since the three programs were placed under one agency, there has been a constant increase and more than $177,000,000 has been spent during the time. The increases have been offsetted due to efforts by the Federal Congress and the Kentucky General Assembly to meet the rising cost of living, according to Barnes. He reported the average monthly payments last year were:

Old Age Assistance, $34.97 to $5,761 recipients; Aid to Dependent Children, $60.88 for each of 19,327 families; and Needy Blind, $36.92 to 2,591 blind recipients.

Held As Smuggler

HIDING HER FACE, a 25-year-old Israeli woman identified as Ester Kas is arraigned in Brooklyn, N. Y., federal court after being found with $104,655 worth of cut and polished diamonds in her clothing. She arrived on a plane from Europe, said she was courting them for a $100 fee. Duty would have been $9,000. (International)

Miss Cohron At Library Meeting

Mrs. Ann Cohron, Reference Librarian, Murray State College, attended the Midwinter Meeting of the American Library Association at the Morrison Hotel in Chicago, February 2-4.

"A Fulbright Family in England, with references to Research in English Libraries" was the subject of one of the most interesting programs of the entire meeting. The lecture was given to the Reference Librarians Section of the Association of College and Reference Libraries by Mr. N. Orwin Rush, Librarian, University of Wyoming Library, Laramie.

A panel discussion of "Standard VII of the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education Visitation Program" was of vital importance to librarians of teacher training institutions. The library of Murray State College was evaluated by this association in November 1952.

President Eisenhower has proposed limited federal support for private health insurance programs. Congress has not yet acted on his proposal, but extensive hearings on health insurance have been held in the House.

Following is the first of three dispatches by a United Press correspondent who covered the hearings.

By PAUL SOUTHWICK
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress is trying to find out what the government can and should do to help Americans get the medical care they need at costs they can afford to pay.

Chairman Charles A. Wolcott, R-N.J. of the House Commerce Committee and a number of committee witnesses say private health insurance programs aren't doing the job. They think the federal government should assist.

President Eisenhower has proposed a $25 million federal program to help private insurance groups extend coverage and increase benefits.

The American Medical Association hasn't gone on record for or against the President's plan. But it argues that 92 million persons already have some degree of insurance against hospital bills, 73 million against surgical bills, and 36 million against other medical bills.

And Edwin J. Faulkner, President of the Woodmen Accident and Associated Companies of Lincoln, Neb., told the committee that insurance companies can "bring a satisfactory measure of protection to practically all of the American people."

Other witnesses have testified there are gaps in present coverage that need filling and that most insurance plans fall short of giving families the protection they need.

The Health Information Foundation, a nonprofit, nonpolitical research organization of New York, told the committee that insurance pays only 15 per cent of the $10,200,000,000 a year bill incurred by U.S. families for medical and hospital care.

The foundation said its research also showed that:

1. Seven per cent of American families, some 3,500,000, have medical expenses ranging from 20 to 100 per cent or more of their yearly income.
2. Fifteen per cent, or 7,500,000 families, are in debt to hospitals, physicians, dentists, and others for

New Deep Sea Diving Record Set

DAKAR, French West Africa (AP)—Two French naval officers today set a deep sea diving record when they plunged nearly two and one-half miles beneath the sea in a fish-shaped bathyscaphe.

Their dive of 13,163 feet bested by 2,819 feet the previous record for descent to the ocean's floor, set by Swiss scientist Prof. August Piccard and his son last Sept. 30.

The 50-foot submarine-like bathyscaphe, the "FNRS-3" set its record in a five hours and 11 minutes plunge to the "bottom of the world" in a deep canyon in the African port.

Lt. Cmdr. Nicolas Houot and engineer Henri Willm hoped in making the deep diving exploration of the ocean depths to bring back data on ocean life which heretofore has been only a matter for speculation.

It probably will be several days before their findings can be classified and evaluated.

Mental Health Society Will Organize

The organizational meeting of the Calloway County Mental Health Society will be held in the Health Center, February 16 at 7:30 p.m.

One Killed Over Past Weekend

FRANKFORT, Feb. 15 (AP)—A late report of a fatality in Louisville today spoiled what State Police had thought was Kentucky's second weekend of the year free of traffic deaths.

Kathy Browning, 18, of Louisville was injured in an accident at 1:23 a.m. in Louisville, and died three hours later. This technically counted as a weekend death, since the count includes all deaths from accidents up to 2 a.m. Monday.

The State Police report, however, that this year's fatality record is much improved over that of last year. A total of 47 persons have lost their lives on Kentucky highways this year as compared with 87 at a corresponding date in 1953.

The report said that Woodlawn Hospital gave the girl adequate first aid before sending her to County Hospital.

The medical society said it entered the case because it "reflected nationwide on the medical profession of Chicago and on the medical care and humane attitudes offered by the hospitals of the city."

In exonerating the hospital, the medical society accused the mother of being tardy in getting the baby to County Hospital after Woodlawn sent her away. She said it took her 1 1/2 hours to make the trip.

The medical society also criticized Coroner Walter McCarron for failing to order an autopsy.

The report said that the society did not believe the child died of burns suffered when a hot vaporizer overturned and scalded her. McCarron replied that his pathologist had said that an autopsy would not be warranted except in cases of suspected foul play and other special circumstances.

A native of Richmond, Kentucky, he received degrees from Eastern Kentucky State College and the University of Kentucky.

This year's Easter Seal campaign, March 18-April 18, will emphasize accidents as the Number One killer of children, Mr. Stone said.

Sports Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY

United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 15, (AP)—The nation's greatest speed week gets underway today on the glistening sands of Daytona Beach as 50,000 average drivers flock to the famed Florida resort to find out just what their own cars will and won't do.

It's the annual NASCAR race week over the famous strip which once quivered under the thundering wheels of Sir Malcolm Campbell's mighty Bluebird. For celebration and speed tests, winding up with three major weekend races.

This is the big show of stock car racing, meaning anything from souped-up jobs to shining automobiles right off the show-room floor, and interest has risen to such a pitch that even sports cars are being introduced on a grand scale.

They will hold interest today as American sports cars compete with European entries in an attempt to break the 134.7 mile per hour record in a two-way dash over a measured mile.

The stocks take over Tuesday with trophy runs over the two-way mile for U.S. late-model four-door sedans and crowning of a women's champion for the two-way performance.

Of great interest to the traffic light jockeys will be the Wednesday acceleration tests open to any and all owners. This is a one-way mile run from a standing start with the best time taking off the trophy. Winding up the day's festivities is the annual dinner of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing.

Qualifying time trials for the three weekend races are listed for Thursday, with the first race Friday being a 100-mile sportsman which can be souped up as long as the motor looks normal, when the hood is lifted, and when you get 100 of these babies littering around on 4 1/2 mile beach-road oval almost anything can happen and usually does.

One last sportsman finisher qualify to join the 150-car field for Saturday's 125-mile modified race. The modifieds are stock cars on which anything goes in the way of "souping," and they are noted more for their battered condition than for their beauty. But they can really turn it on and crashes are frequent and thorough.

But the piece de resistance of the week comes on Sunday in the 160-mile Grand National.

This class is limited to cars no more than three years old and the majority of them are spanking new, at the start. This is the one watched most keenly by automotive engineers—and by the average car owner—because after a few laps by the 150 entries the track is a rutted mess.

But the daredevil behind the wheel don't turn it off. The record average for the 160 miles is 89.5 miles per hour. They expect to break it Sunday. And a lot of other things are certain to be broken in the process.

ope In Good Company On Post Cover

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Don't let the national magazines fool you—this isn't "be kind to comedians" week.

Just because Jack Benny adorns the cover of Collier's and Bob Hope is mugging it up on the Saturday Evening Post wrapper is no reason to presume that funnymen have taken over the country. Benny's face graces Collier's because of his admission that he's finally reached 40. The reason for Hope's ski-nosed portrait is his confession that he's over 50-years old—and a barrel of other admissions.

Hope is the fourth man in history to greet the public from the Post's cover.
His predecessors were Benjamin Franklin, who founded the magazine and appears on its cover periodically, famed cowboy humorist Will Rogers and President Eisenhower, who made the grade when he became Chief Executive.

"No doubt about it," Hope quipped, "I'm in good company."

He added that this week's Post begins a nine-installment serial of his life—compared with eight installments for Bing Crosby's "Call Me Lucky" biography.
"My series is 'This Is On Me' but the editors turned down my suggestion that we tag it 'Call Me Luckier'." Why did they give me one more installment than old gravel throat? Bing hasn't lived—he's just existing.

Hope's leering likeness was painstakingly done by America's favorite illustrator, Norman Rockwell.

"That boy really knows what he's doing," Bob laughed.

"I posed for him for exactly one hour—but during that time guys were taking pictures of me like crazy, and he was sketching like fury."

"He has a jet style. Kept asking for different expressions until he found one he liked—and that was it."

Bob said the series, written with Pete Martin, didn't start out to be a biography. However, it will be published later in book form.

In recalling his life, Hope said the happy things were the easiest to remember.
"I've always been an optimist," he grinned. "If I had to do it over again, I'd start playing golf earlier. I'd be a lot richer now if I had."

Asked if he'd enjoy living his life over again, he said, "Impossible, I wouldn't have time."

A total of 16,798 evergreens and 31,455 shrubs were set by homeowners in their home beautification program last year.

HERE'S HOW

MAKE AN EQUIPMENT SHED

A shed for handy storage of lawnmowers, bicycles, rakes, wagons and other garden and play equipment pays dividends in better maintenance and neatness.

A sturdy frame of 2 x 4's set on concrete or cinder blocks and enclosed with 1 x 6 lumber, may be painted or shingled to harmonize with the garage or house. The back of the shed may be fastened to an existing structure, as shown in the small picture, or all four sides may be enclosed to form a completely separate building. First step in construction is to make the end frames on the ground. These are then stood in place, and the 8-foot frame members are nailed to them.

The 1 x 6 lumber used for the siding is cut to fit snugly under the roof. Horizontal 2 x 4's should be added to the frame between each 2 x 4 upright for additional nailing surface. The roof lumber is cut 8 feet 6 inches long to provide an overhang.

The shed may be floored with 1-inch or 2-inch lumber, nailed to the bottom framing. Or, if a brick, patio-type area is first laid, the shed may be set upon it, and the bricks will serve as a floor.

No-Mess Paint Pail!

Here's a no-mess paint pail for the amateur home decorator! It's a galvanized steel pail with a wire stretched across the top and fastened to the pail's handle attachments. The wire, instead of the pail's edge, is used to remove excess paint from the brush, thus letting the paint fall back into the pail. Large quantities of paint can be mixed in the pail, too, without danger of spilling.
